Data as of
27 February 2026

Fund AUM
$144,574,659

Fund Launch
01 October 2019

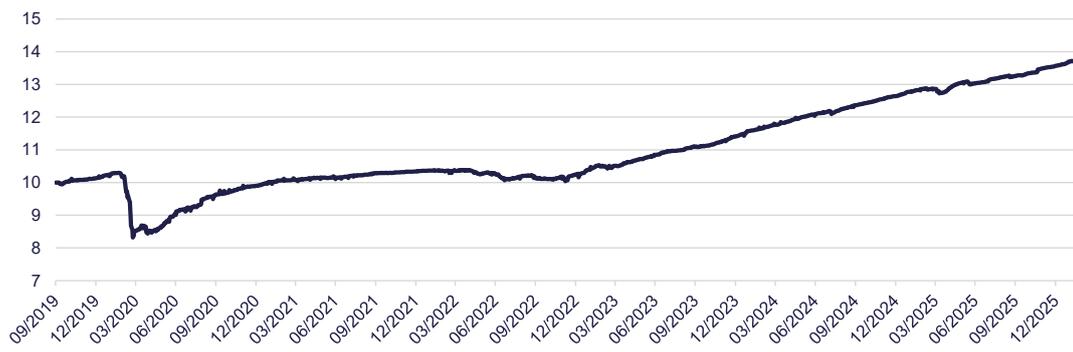

Investment Strategy

- The strategy seeks to generate attractive yields through a core structured credit portfolio, with a low beta to broader credit markets.
- Utilises Ellington's models and analytic tools to seek alpha through security selection, in addition to employing an active trading approach, aiming to capture bid-offer spread within its focus markets.
- Invests in assets across the securitized credit spectrum, with a focus on non-agency RMBS, CMBS, CLOs, and ABS. Within those markets, the fund specifically focuses on assets with risk profiles that are typically more attractive than implied by their ratings.
- A large portion of the fund's securitized assets have floating rate coupons and exposure to real assets such as housing, characteristics that position the fund well across a variety of macroeconomic scenario including the current inflationary environment.
- The Fund targets SOFR +4% over a full market cycle.

(2) Fund returns for the Alma Ellington Structured Credit Income Fund reflect the performance of the EO USD share class (ticker: ALMESEO LX) since inception on 13 June 2025. Performance from 1 October 2019 through that date reflects the identical EO USD share class of its predecessor, the Franklin K2 Ellington Mortgage Income UCITS Fund (ticker: FREEOPF LX). On the ALMESEO LX inception date, all assets and investor interests were transferred from the predecessor fund on a one-to-one basis; management, strategy, and EO share class continuity were maintained. (3) Source: Alma Capital Investment Management. VaR is generated through Arkus Risk Services. The figure represents the current maximum loss anticipated with a 99% confidence level over a 20-day period. (4) Strategy returns from December 2016 to September 2018 reflect a sub-account ("Sleeve") of the Franklin K2 Long Short Credit Fund UCITS, managed by Ellington using a substantially similar strategy. These returns are presented solely to provide additional historical context. In contrast to the later transition, this earlier period reflects continuity of strategy only, without legal or investor linkage. All information as of 27 February 2026 unless otherwise specified. February Commentary - Ellington ⁽⁹⁾

Performance Attribution

In February, credit spreads widened as markets sold off amid AI-related concerns, reflecting both potential industry-specific disruption and growing macroeconomic uncertainty around employment as AI adoption accelerates. Structured product markets followed this trend, with CLOs seeing the most price dispersion given volatility of the underlying loans, particularly those related to software companies. During the month, non-QM AAAs widened 20 bps and AAA CMBS were unchanged. While AAA CLOs widened 10 bps, spread moves were more pronounced lower in the capital stack.

Non-agency RMBS spreads widened in February, with weakness concentrated at the top of the capital stack. Wider agency spreads and heavy issuance volumes drove the shift, retracing some of January's outperformance. The fund's assets were partially insulated from the move given the portfolio's tilt toward seasoned, de-levered mezzanine bonds, which tend to have lower correlation with new issuance spreads.

CLO spreads widened across the capital stack in February, pressured by lower leveraged loan prices and heavy supply from asset managers. The fund's CLO portfolio outperformed and finished roughly flat during the month, reflecting its bias toward shorter spread duration and higher-quality mezzanine tranches, with widening largely offset by high interest carry.

Portfolio Changes

One of the fund's CLO assets was called in February, returning capital at an opportune time for reinvestment. Proceeds were reinvested into additional seasoned CLOs, as well as some non-QM mezzanine risk.

Portfolio Expectations

Rapid market movements driven by uncertainty around evolving technologies and geopolitical risks may create opportunities for active rotation within the fund's assets, enhancing total return potential. We expect emerging opportunities to be more concentrated in CLOs, given market sentiment around many parts of the corporate credit market. We will continue to monitor these developments and adjust positioning opportunistically as market conditions evolve.

What are the Risks?

The Fund does not offer any capital guarantee or protection and you may not get back the amount invested. The Fund is subject to the following risks which are materially relevant: Counterparty risk: the risk of failure of financial institutions or agents (when serving as a counterparty to financial contracts) to perform their obligations, whether due to insolvency, bankruptcy or other causes. Credit risk: the risk of loss arising from default that may occur if an issuer fails to make principal or interest payments when due. This risk is higher if the Fund holds low-rated, sub-investment-grade securities. Hedged Strategies risk: Hedged strategies that are designed to capture value in a non-directional market, may involve exposure to some second order risk of the market, such as the implied volatility in convertible bonds or warrants, the yield spread between similar term government bonds, or the price spread between different classes of stock for the same underlying firm. Such strategies may recognise substantial losses even on "hedge" or "arbitrage" positions. Prepayment risk: Debt securities are subject to prepayment risk when the issuer can "call" the security, or repay principal, in whole or in part, prior to the security's maturity. Securities subject to prepayment may offer less potential for gains during a declining interest rate environment and have greater price volatility. Liquidity risk: the risk that arises when adverse market conditions affect the ability to sell assets when necessary. Such risk may be triggered by (but not limited to) unexpected events such as environmental disasters or pandemics. Reduced liquidity may have a negative impact on the price of the assets. Securitisation risk: investment in securities which generate return from various underlying groups of assets such as mortgages, loans or other assets may bear a greater risk of loss due to possible default of some of the underlying assets. Complete information on the risks of investing in the Fund are set out in the Fund's prospectus.
